SBIR Road Tour

SEEDING AMERICA'S FUTURE INNOVATIONS™

Tuesday, July 19

The Small Business Innovation Research program and its sister, Small Business Technology Transfer, together provide $2.5 billion annually in federal funding for research by small companies. West Virginia innovators can engage SBIR/STTR leaders face-to-face when the 2016 national SBIR Road Tour visits.

Who should attend?

- Entrepreneurial university researchers
- Small firms in the early stages of R&D of new products or services
- Previous SBIR/STTR award winners interested in new funding opportunities

If you or your company could use early-stage, non-dilutive research funding, this rare gathering of state and federal representatives – including SBIR program managers from several agencies – is an event you don't want to miss.

Federal agencies scheduled to participate

USDA ● NIST ● Air Force ● Navy ● NIH ● DHS ● DOE ● SBA ● USPTO

- Get the scoop on SBIR/STTR directly from the funding agencies
- Meet 1-on-1 with agency program managers to receive feedback on your research ideas and how they align with agency priorities
- Glean tips from recent SBIR winners from West Virginia
- Learn about state funding opportunities and resource providers
